

Destination Relocation Services Combine Resources for Portland Maine Region | Press Release Maine

Portland, Maine February 20, 2010 – Nextasea, Inc. and Maine Day Trip have combined their respective resources and expertise to provide independent destination relocation services for the Portland, Maine regional area. These enterprising companies offer an individualized relocation plan focused on alleviating the uncertainties involved in making a major life change. Working in collaboration with corporate executive based moves, independent individuals and their families, or retirees, each circumstance is carefully analyzed. The services encompass a range from initial orientation to Portland Maine's regional area, home finding and school finding assistance, to settling in services after the move. By providing peace of mind and confidence in making the right choices, their clients are left with less stress and anxiety. Their goal is to make their client's move into the Portland Maine area an exciting and positive experience.

“A preview orientation trip into the area can be greatly enhanced by seeing neighborhoods and exploring surrounding communities with the help of an independent guide” states Norm Forgey, owner of Maine Day Trip. Mr. Forgey has personally experience several corporate relocations himself and enjoys introducing Maine to relocating families.

Linda Brookes, co-owner of Nextasea, Inc., comments “Providing updated information and researching areas of specific need has proven to be a valuable resource to those we serve. As their single point of contact, our clients save time and move forward with their plans with more efficiency.”

Maine provides a healthy and environmentally friendly living experience. Endowed with cultural venues, historic sites, outdoor adventure activities, ocean views and scenic by-ways, the Portland, Maine regional area showcases a natural and exhilarating environment for relocating individuals and families.
